HOW MANY FALSE ARRESTS?

Judge Graham's little room, 1108 City Hall, will have a hard job Nov. 10 at 9 a. m. There are now 940 cases of garment strikers set for trial then. Witnesses, complainants and defendants will number over 1,500. If the police make the same showing of evidence they did in the waitresses' strike last year there will be no convictions and the main fact again established will be that policemen for reasons not definitely known make hundreds of false arrests during strikes, to the profit chiefly of the employers.

Sit up close, children, and listen. You have heard stories that the police force of Chicago is a dark jungle where thieves, clairvoyants, burglars, gamblers, gunmen and strikebound employers buy protection with cash paid to detectives, sergeants, lieutenants and captains of police who have protection to sell in exchange for cash. But these stories, children are fairy stories. The true story is that the police force, especially its commanding officers, is honest and noble and upright. They are heroes. Especially the commanding officers
